

The Genesis Educational Foundation Trust (GEFT) bursary is the educational arm of Genesis Analytics – an African economics-based consulting firm. The principal objective of the foundation is to support initiatives to promote the educational and professional development of young people in the designated groups, as described by the Employment Equity Act 55 of 1998, in the discipline of economics and related fields.

The GEFT bursary is offered to young South African students from previously disadvantaged backgrounds who are eligible to study towards their Honours or Master's degree in Economics or related fields at a recognised South African university.

Applicants must have achieved a consistent average of 65% and above for their undergraduate and/or Honours degree. The bursary is primarily available to cover tuition fees as well as books and stationery. Dependent on available funds GEFT may be in a position to contribute towards additional needs such as accommodation and transport.

Our bursary process will run in September and October 2018. Visit our website at www.genesis-analytics.com/careers#bursaries for more details and to apply online.

A complete application must consist of the following:

- A comprehensive CV
- A copy of your South African identity document
- A motivational letter
- Full academic transcripts from your first year of undergraduate studies to date
- A writing sample (eg. An essay, proposal, or assignment. This must be a recent submission from the current or previous academic year)

Genesis Analytics is an Equal Opportunity Employer. Suitable candidates are described as per the designated groups i.e. South African Indian, Coloured and African candidates, as defined in the Employment Equity Act 55 of 1998.

Apply online via the Genesis Analytics website by close of business on Friday, 7 September 2018. Applications sent and received by email will not be considered.
