The second woman I want to mention is Dr. June Theron. She was born in 1973. Her work was an important contribution to the construction of the social welfare of the total society. The problem that she perceived was how to create a system that would allow women to develop their socio-economic potential without compromising the socio-economic aspects of the total society. She saw the need for a society that would recognize the role of women in economic activities. She emphasized the importance of economic activities for women and argued that economic activities are not only for men but also for women. She believed that economic activities are essential for women's personal development and that they should be encouraged to participate in economic activities.

Theron's work is based on the idea that women should be encouraged to participate in economic activities. She believed that women have the potential to make significant contributions to the economy and that their participation should be encouraged. She argued that economic activities are important for women's personal development and that they should be encouraged to participate in economic activities.

Theron's work is based on the idea that women should be encouraged to participate in economic activities. She believed that women have the potential to make significant contributions to the economy and that their participation should be encouraged. She argued that economic activities are important for women's personal development and that they should be encouraged to participate in economic activities.

Theron's work is based on the idea that women should be encouraged to participate in economic activities. She believed that women have the potential to make significant contributions to the economy and that their participation should be encouraged. She argued that economic activities are important for women's personal development and that they should be encouraged to participate in economic activities.
are for 1945 and the employment figures for 1949.

The figures do not show that there was an economic depression in the 1940s. The figures show that the total employment of women in the years before the 1940s was much higher than the total employment figures for the years after the 1940s. The figures also show that the number of women employed in the years before the 1940s was much higher than the number of women employed in the years after the 1940s.

Before we speculate about the employment opportunities and prospects for women, we should note that there were few opportunities for women in the years before the 1940s. The figures do not show that there was an economic depression in the 1940s. The figures do not show that the total employment of women in the years before the 1940s was much higher than the total employment figures for the years after the 1940s. The figures also show that the number of women employed in the years before the 1940s was much higher than the number of women employed in the years after the 1940s.

Before we speculate about the employment opportunities and prospects for women, we should note that there were few opportunities for women in the years before the 1940s. The figures do not show that there was an economic depression in the 1940s. The figures do not show that the total employment of women in the years before the 1940s was much higher than the total employment figures for the years after the 1940s. The figures also show that the number of women employed in the years before the 1940s was much higher than the number of women employed in the years after the 1940s.
What is the chance that we will succeed in attaining a high growth and high level employment positions under these circumstances?

With an unemployment rate of 5,2 per cent, remaining unchanged, that will mean that 27% of the Negro labour force is unemployed, for we would require a growth rate of 3% per cent to go from their present condition.

The modern sector has geared itself up to more or less 5 million.

If we do not create enough job opportunities to accommodate those who are unemployed, the Negro and Coloured sector cannot function in the economic sphere.

The agricultural sector cannot be an economic engine of any importance to the nation.

This is a question of human needs that have not been satisfied. People in the rural areas are not able to earn a living. This has led to the deterioration of the agricultural sector.

During the last few years, the real per capita income has been decreasing. This has been caused by a variety of factors, including the high inflation rate and the lack of investment in the country.

The growth rate was almost 5 per cent annually, with 1973 - 1975.

This increase in unemployment has been due to a variety of factors, including the high inflation rate and the lack of investment in the country.

The agricultural sector was able to earn a high growth rate from 1947 - 1977.

The expansion of the labor force has not been due to an increase in the number of workers, but to a decrease in the number of hours worked.

The labor force participation of women has remained relatively stable, with a slight increase in the last few years.

The labor force participation of Coloureds has remained relatively stable, with a slight increase in the last few years.

The labor force participation of Africans has remained relatively stable, with a slight increase in the last few years.

The labor force participation of Whites has remained relatively stable, with a slight increase in the last few years.
...
I don't choose to struggle and burdens heavy you. I have to keep on your feet. I shouldn't have a chance to do something meaningful.

I should only confront you with the challenge, but if you will

The only way to "normalise" the South African situation.

South Africa is the country of our country. As the society and economic life of our country. As the society and economic life of our country. As the society and economic life of our country.
a chance to succeed when the men have fallen not to despair at the woman of South Africa, not to despair at our own position. A very important reason is the possibility of our being able to achieve more optimistic results if we work together to achieve our goals.

Expectations.

There is no better employment opportunities and optimistic outcomes.

The situation of the economic and political situation and the state of the world, the economic and political situation, and the state of the world.

It will be the responsibility of the government to organize women's groups that will organize an event.

The government can make a plan to ensure that there will be more employment opportunities in different parts of the country, particularly for women. The government can organize events in different parts of the country.

The economic situation of South Africa is a major concern. The government has to play a constructive role in creating an environment that is conducive to women's participation.

Given that women are still in a large majority in the reader-

Advantages of the current population.

The advantage of the current population is that it can be translated into a constructive program for the development of an economic system and a new political system. The government has to work with the "socio-economic framework" for the development of an economic system.

The government has to work with the "socio-economic framework" for the development of an economic system.